

Weekend volunteers needed at Dyrham Park!

As Dyrham Park comes to the end of the conservation project, we've opened some new areas in the house – including a Conservation studio and exhibition which looks at the garden. Following on from the success of the Welcome Guides near the house and courtyard, we're keen to carry this on. Whether you're interested in history and conservation and want to help us delivery tours of the conservation studio, or you're a people person who likes sharing stories and information to help families have a nice visit – we've got a role to suit you.

Would you be interested in sparing a few hours on either a Saturday or a Sunday once a fortnight, we'd love to hear from you. It's a great way to meet new people, learn new skills and be part of the team making a real difference here at Dyrham Park.

If you're interested, please drop our Visitor and Volunteering Officer Kate a line at kate.collins@nationaltrust.org.uk tel: 0117 937 1333 to find out more.
